A POINT WELL TAKEN.

A few men in Pittsburgh who have no respect for ANDREW JOHNSON as a man, and no confidence in what is known as his Policy, nevertheless feel disposed, when he shall reach this city, to honor the Presidency in his person. When Mr. JOHNSON was at Niagara Falls, a few days ago, a Louisiana delegation waited on him. He told them flatly—

"It is not the President who moves among the people now. I do not take the President about with me."

So, then, neither the President nor the Presidency is coming to Pittsburgh. Only Mr. ANDREW JOHNSON, tailor, of Tennessee, is coming. Let those who feel an admiration for that individual, be on hand to welcome him, and let those who would do honor to the President stay away until he comes.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, in his Niagara Falls speech, said:

"We have been denounced as traitors, as having deserted party. Well, I am free to say that I am for my country, and that party may go to the devil!—(Laughter)—or anywhere else. I go for my country and my whole country, and the day is coming when the country and the people of the United States should stand above party and the shackles of party, and should stand around the altar of our country—the whole country—and send party, whoever it may —(A voice, 'Over the falls.')

Mr. Seward—"That's better than the other place you mentioned."

It is no new thing for men to assign lofty motives for base actions. The simple fact is, the President has left the Republican party and gone over to the Democratic—left the party that defended the government, and gone over to the party that made war upon it—left the company of loyal men, and gone over to that of traitors.

THE Democrats of Philadelphia have made Congressional nomination as follows: First District—Hon. S. J. Randall. Second District—John Hulme. Third District—Charles Buckwalter. Fourth District—John Welsh. Fifth District—H. P. Ross.

Senatorial nomination: First District—Gen. Wm. McCandless.

The Legislative nominations, as far as ascertained, were as follows: Second District—Wm. S. Gregory. Third District—Samuel Josephs. Fifth District—Wm. B. Fourth District—Peter Fritz, Jr. District—George A. Quigley. Fifteenth District—Albert R. Schoneld. Seventh District—Samuel Cox. Eighteenth District—R. P. Dechert.

THE formal ex-communication of Henry J. Raymond, N. D. Sperry and G. R. Sciter from the Republican National Committee is an act of political justice which all honorable men will approve. Mr. Raymond, as Chairman of the Committee, has twenty thousand dollars of its funds in custody. These he has not handed over, but says he will when such arrangements shall be made in re-constituting the Committee as he shall deem legitimate and proper.

THE Kittaning Republican mass meeting on Tuesday was a splendid success. Darwin Phelps, Esq., presided. Speeches were made by Prof. Leo Miller, of Rochester, N. Y.; the Hon. Thomas J. Bigham, and the Hon. Thomas Williams, of Allegheny. H. W. Smith reported a series of strong resolutions. There are no Johnson men in Armstrong except the democrats.

THE Texans do not like that portion of General HOWARD'S Report to General HOWARD which fixes upon them inhuman treatment of the freedmen. It is not uncommon for people who do wrongs to get incensed at being told of it. But where the General is known—as he is in Allegheny county—his statements will stand against any amount of defamation.

THE nomination of Mr. DANIEL J. MORRELL as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Cambria district, gives complete satisfaction. Never in public life, he possesses so many admirable qualifications for the post to which he has been designated, that he will prove an excellent reinforcement to the practical wisdom of the House.

THE Wilmington (N. C.) Dispatch discourses with genuine conservative amenity of Mr. Secretary Stanton, thus:

"When his mortal career ends, he will hasten below to receive avenging fortune which have been prepared for him in the infuriated hell to which he is surely destined, where the crackling blazes are leaping and licking their tongues in joyous anticipation of his arrival."

THE President and his party will not occupy the Board of Trade Rooms at Chicago, but will take quarters at the Sherman House, and speak from the balconies.

A GRAND mass meeting will be held at Washington, Pa., September 28th. Gen. Geary, Gov. Curtin, Gov. Willey, and Messrs. Grow and McClure will speak.

ALEX. ATCHISON, Esq., of Washington county, is the Republican candidate for President Judge in the Washington and Beaver district.

THAIRWELL, convicted of the murder of James Houseman, will be executed at Uniontown, on the first Monday in October next.

THE Huntingdon county Republicans have instructed for Gov. CURTIN for United States Senator.

The Laws of Health.

It is useless for State Legislatures to pass laws for the preservation of the public health if the great law of self-preservation, which depends for its enforcement upon the will of the individual, is suffered to remain a dead letter.

There is scarcely an adult member of a community, of either sex, in this country, who has not seen the testimony in favor of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, published over their own signatures by persons of acknowledged eminence in science, literature, art, commerce, and every department of business and professional life. These witnesses have declared in the most explicit terms that the preparation is a safeguard against epidemics, a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia, a valuable anti-bilious medicine, a promoter of appetite, a genial and harmless stimulant, a gentle exhilarating medicine, a strengthener of the nerves, a general invigorant, a protection against the deleterious effects of malaria and impure water, and that it imparts a degree of vigor and activity to the vital forces which is not communicated by any other or the same quantity of any other tonic. Under these circumstances the self-preservative law of nature should teach every rational person who suffers, by reason of innocent debility or in consequence of exposure to unwholesome influences, is in peril of losing the greatest of all temporal blessings, health, the importance of using the BITTERS as a defence against disease. Dyspeptics who neglect to give it a trial are simply their own enemies. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion in all its forms, and the bilious and nervous will find nothing in the whole range of official and proprietary medicines which will afford them the same relief.

The Presidential Excursion—Arrival at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Wed. A. M., September 5.—The Presidential party had a military and masonic escort to the station of the Michigan Central Railroad. Immense crowds were standing on the bottom of the rear car where he was heartily cheered.

MICHIGAN, 10th.—The President here made a speech to several thousands of persons, and was presented with bouquets.

ANN ARBOR, 11th.—The President addressed the people here, and Governor Crapo, Lieutenant Governor Bagley, Senator Chandler, General Grant and Admiral Farragut were the recipients of enthusiastic cheers.

NOON, 5 o'clock.—We waited for ten minutes at a station called Wauseon, when a stalwart German with a stentorian voice announced that the President and other high officers were coming, and was actually cheered.

While the applause was in full blow a portion of the platform gave way, and a couple of men who were standing on it fell between the planks.

A boy was seriously hurt, while others escaped with a bruise. The effect of the unexpected crash had an uncomfortable dissolving effect upon the crowd. Fortunately no lives were lost or limbs broken. The President and the distinguished members of the party were in front of the platform, the timbers having given way in the rear.

ADRIAN, Sept. 5, 1 P. M.—The party went to a stand erected near the track. Here the President, the Secretary of State, Gen. Grant, Admiral Farragut, Governor Bagley, Lieutenant-Governor Dewey, Secretary Weiss, Major-General Hartsuff, Chairman and Boutwell were introduced and successively cheered. Minister Romero was also introduced to the assemblage. Mexico was greeted by the Republican portion of the crowd. Music was played and a salute fired. The President was welcomed in a short speech.

MARSHALL, Sept. 5.—Preparations similar to those just related took place in the midst of a dense concourse of people.

BATTLE CREEK, September 5.—The party was received in a similar manner. Many gathered thousands of people. After the usual introductions were over Secretary Seward said: "I congratulate among the friends of my country and of free government upon the meeting and I'll do the talking. The General has for the Colonel and Pike for the Union. A few years ago, when I was Minister of the United States of Mexico, I want to see [illegible] whether you are prepared to give as a cheer for the United States of America.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., September 5.—A large concourse of people were assembled at the train resumed its way.

MONTAGUE CITY, September 5.—A large number of persons were assembled, among them [illegible] with their torches. This is the Congressional District. The President replied to the remarks.

A delegation of one hundred citizens of Chicago here came on board to escort the President and party to that city. We arrived in Chicago at half past ten o'clock. We reached the main point of our destination. Here we were met by a tremendous throng of people. The procession was with difficulty cut through the crowd to the carriages.

The Tremont Hotel was illuminated with Chinese lanterns, and was gaily decorated. At the Sherman House, there was another exhibition in front of that establishment. Along the route thousands of people bocked the sidewalks. The greatest possible excitement existed—men rushing to and fro, and pressing one another to keep up with the carriages.

The floors before the Sherman House were [illegible] and were made for the President and Gen. Grant. The Mayor of the city, Mr. Rice, met the President in the name of the citizens, and conducted him to the portico where he introduced him to the people, in a few felicitous remarks.

Cheers were made for General Grant, and on that gentleman appearing the popular enthusiasm and admiration broke out afresh. The cheers were general and the excitement intense. The people were truly wild with excitement and cheer after cheer was given. The secretary of state and other prominent gentlemen of the party were introduced and received with hearty cheers.

Chicago to-night exhibits a scene of excitement such as it ever before witnessed.

General Murphy has elected temporary Speaker, and on the organization of the Committees on Credentials, the Congress adjourned to await its report.

General Sweeny's report will be presented to-morrow.

Delegates appear disposed to frown down any attempts to introduce politics into the convention, all discussion of the action of Congress, the Johnson policy, the interference of the Executive with the civil laws being debarred.

Open Session of New York Delegates

Addresses of Distinguished Speakers.

INFORMAL MEETING OF NORTHERN DELEGATES.

COMMITTEE TO MEET THE SOUTHERN COMMITTEE

Addresses by Senator Wilson, Generals Schenck and Butler.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—The New York Delegation met in open session.

The portrait of Andy Johnson has been moved from the League House.

Speeches were made by W. W. Burleigh, of New York, Col. Hamilton, of New York, Theo. Tuton, of New York, Mr. Kelly, of Philadelphia, Fred. Douglas, of New York, and others.

Col. Hamilton detailed some interviews he had with President Lincoln in 1861, in which he urged the removal from the Cabinet of Secretary Seward, basing his arguments as to Mr. Seward's unfitness in his diplomatic dispatches to Mr. Adams. He knew that Gen. Scott's programme for the prosecution of the war was overruled by Seward and McClellan and he believed that McClellan had acted under the inspiration of Seward, in the campaign. He believed that Seward in the whole game was a political and party game. In reference to the Presidency, he believed that either Mr. Johnson or Mr. Seward, was to be the candidate of what was called "our party," or the conservative party. Their hope was that the North would be divided, and that if they could bring in the Southern States, the Southern vote would be cast in a solid block, and the Government thrown into the hands of the rebels; that is the game which Johnson and Seward were now playing.

At an informal meeting of Northern delegates this afternoon, on motion of General Woodridge, a committee of five was appointed to meet the committee appointed by the Southern Union Convention. This committee is composed of General Wolbridge of New York, General Butler of Massachusetts, General Schenck of Ohio, Mr. Ward of Michigan, and Mr. Kelly of Pennsylvania.

Senator Wilson said he had been receiving a profound mortification and shame the speech made by the President at Cleveland. He had the nation would remain in this state and mortification, and he could but think that it would be received with regret by the Christian and civilized world. Could Johnson's Washington associates, Andrew Johnson, [illegible], that they did not care about dignity? Dignity! Disgrace was dead—a burning insult to every American.

Governor Brownlow, of Ohio, was the next speaker. He promised that on the 8th of October ohio would set an example which he hoped to see New York would profit by in the November election. If the Republican party succeeded in the approaching struggle, Andrew Johnson would be, in his own classical language, "a dead cock in the pit." (Laughter.)

It was said that the President was surrounded by men of influence and capital. Were such men as Moses Taylor and Henry Barr. A voice: "A man who had been a prostate to all parties, but thank God was pregnant to none." (Loud laughter.) Those were the men of capital who were really men whose speculative engagements brought them into direct relations with the Executive. He knew that Johnson was influenced by the Vallandighams, the Seymours, the Marshall O. Roberts, the Chas. Knapps, but only because those men had their shinding their sugar and sugar plums to sell, and the Executive, and not Congress, had all the contracting to do. Such men had supported Lincoln, supported Johnson, and would support any power in power. If Johnson had surrounded himself with men who could give him capital, that was their only reason for giving an appearance of support to the Executive. As a general fact, Andy Johnson had put himself at the head of copperheads, rebels, men who either fought Union men or sympathized with treachery at home.

General Butler, of Massachusetts, having been appointed on the Committee, and having been announced for speech, was called for a speech and took the stand. He said the issue between the President and Congress was fairly stated to be, "Shall the rebels be admitted to Congress?" Certain rebels were admitted from Tennessee, from Louisiana, from Arkansas, of the Senate from Raleigh, others from Alexandria, of the Congress from Raleigh, others from Louisiana, and others from Arkansas, until they gave guarantees for their good conduct. They did not have the right to be admitted by men of like character. They hated intelligent men of like character. They hated intelligent men of like character. They hated intelligent

HUMANITARIANISM.

HENRY WARD BEECHER is a man of genius. His ideas flit like swallows over vast fields of thought, and with initial gyrations. It is exhilarating, cheering, and often highly instructive, to follow him in his daring flights—sometimes glittering in the sunshine, and anon dipping his wing in some filthy place, that he may snatch up an equally offensive insect or worm. But as a guide, as a pilot, in the great ocean of thought and truth, he is just about as reliable as a swallow would be on the natural ocean.

The trouble with BEECHER is that he is what is called a humanitarian, one who is indiscriminately benevolent. The element of justice has no place in his system. His mercy is not like the divine attribute known by that term, freely bestowed upon the penitent, and withheld from the obdurate and the hardened; but is showered upon all alike. Were he less intelligent, he would probably be a universalist in theology, as he appears to be in his politics. While the rebels were prosecuting their wicked war he took as strong ground as any of us against them, but now that they are unable to fight any longer, he is for taking them back into full fellowship, and lavishing upon them his affection and his confidence. With overwhelming evidence of their unabated enmity pouring in upon him from every quarter, he is for reinvesting them with more than their former power in the government—asking no guarantees and taking no precautions against a re-enactment of the dreadful tragedy which has just closed. But, worse than all, he would have us so act as to establish the principle for all time that treason is no crime, and that the men who did their utmost to destroy us as a nation, and who slaughtered hundreds of thousands of our best and bravest, incurred no guilt, no demerit, in so doing. He insists that we shall not "discern between the righteous and the wicked," between the loyal and the disloyal, the men who upheld the government and those who struggled like fiends to overthrow it.

This is the legitimate sequence of Humanitarianism when carried to excess. It is a distorted and diseased moral condition—a morbid overgrowth of one moral quality, at the expense of other qualities equally beautiful and holy. Mr. BEECHER has swung loose from his moorings, and lost sight of the sublime portraiture which that Being he professed to serve has given of himself in the Bible—"Merciful and gracious, long suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands forgiving iniquity, transgression and sin, but who will by no means clear the guilty." Here is a transcript of the divine character as far as man may know it, and of the principles upon which his government is administered in the world—an example, a pattern, for us to imitate as far as possible in our governments, whether in the family, the state or the nation. Justice and Mercy are both alike magnified and made honorable. But Mr. BEECHER would "clear the guilty," however obdurate and unrepentant, and open the doors of our national temple so that the spoilers may re-enter and do just as they did before. Neither Congress nor the President has a right to do anything of the kind. They are bound to take the best security against a repetition of treason, rebellion and war that can be obtained. The loyal people do not ask for vengeance, nor for punishment for its own sake; but they do ask, and are resolved to have, guarantees for the future peace of the nation.

To give the government, either in whole or in part, into the hands of the rebellious—and we have abundant evidence that a large majority of the people of the insurgent States are still rebellious—would be to cast pearls before swine. There is a law which BEECHER, as a Christian minister, ought not to lose sight of, even while writing political letters. It is in these words: "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine; lest they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend you." There is no overstrained humanitarianism, no mawkish sentimentality, in that law, and it applies with startling emphasis and force to the case before us.

THE Democrats and Conservatives propose to defraud the Northern States out of their fair proportion of the law-making power by allowing the rebels to offset 4,240,000 disfranchised negroes in the South against an equal number of voting citizens in the North. The second section of the proposed amendment is designed and adapted to regulate this obvious injustice, and that is why it is opposed. It declares that representation shall be apportioned according to the number of voters in each State. No more equitable rule, or one more clearly in the interest of impartial liberty, can be devised. Why should the political power of each voter at the South be twice that of each voter at the North? No answer can be given except that there is an old abuse to conserve, and men ready to stand by it because it is old.

CAPT. CRAFT, a one-legged soldier, and a competent and deserving official, has been removed from the office of Whisky Inspector at Bridgeport, in Fayette county, and Mr. Lewis Mobley, a violent Copperhead, put in his place. This may be taken as a commentary on the declaration of the President at Niagara Falls, that he has left party for the whole country—in plain words, he has left the defenders of the government and joined its enemies.

UNION STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

Address to the People of Pennsylvania.

The Union State Central Committee had a large meeting Monday afternoon, at their rooms, No. 1106 Chestnut street. Reports from the different counties were received, and all were of the most gratifying character. The following address was ordered to be published:

COMMITTEE ROOMS, No. 1106 CHESTNUT ST., }
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3, 1866. }

Fellow-Citizens—The superficial observer might suppose, after the fearful struggles, sacrifices and sufferings of the last five years that we could safely relax our efforts and watchfulness, and, returning to our individual affairs, permit the machinery of government to run itself. An intelligent and patriotic survey of the situation, however, will not warrant any such conclusion, but will impress us more than ever with the truth and wisdom of the adage, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." Six years ago the people lawfully elected Abraham Lincoln President of the United States. The minority, enemies of our government and country, refused to submit to their defeat at the polls, and, for the first time in our history, appealed from the ballot-box to the sword. They defiantly threw off all the obligations of constitutions and laws, rushed madly into civil war, and fought with malignity and desperation for four long bloody years in the wicked attempt to overthrow and utterly destroy the government handed down by our fathers. This they did under the pretext that a State had a constitutional right to secede from the Union. The same thing had been attempted in South Carolina in 1832, but under the vigorous administration of President Jackson, the effort signally failed, and the doctrine on which it was based was repudiated. But in 1856, when the Democratic party at Cincinnati nominated James Buchanan for President, they revived the old State rights dogma of secession, by readopting the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions of 1798 and 1799, as a part of their platform. And at the Charleston Convention, in 1860, although the party there split into two parts, the one nominating Douglas and the other Breckinridge for President, both factions re-adopted these same resolutions, which do not hold the relations of the States to the United States as constituting a government in the ordinary and proper sense of the term, but declared to be merely a compact among parties having no common judge, each party has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of infractions as of the mode and measure of redress.

Under this free Democratic charter for rebellion the election of Abraham Lincoln was claimed by the rebel States as an "infraction of the compact," and they chose secession and civil war as the "mode" and the "measure of redress." Hence, when the war broke upon us in all its fury, we found the Democratic party paralyzed. It was seriously brought face to face with the practical application of its own political creed, by its own political friends. Hence, too, the treason and civil war, with all its frightful fruits of the war, and essential to our peace and security for the future. By the storms of civil war some of the land marks made by our fathers were taken away, and some of the ancient foundations laid by them were moved. Let us wisely readjust them, so that our temple of liberty may stand upon the broader and firmer foundation of universal liberty and impartial justice.

In March, 1865, the Union party assembled in convention to nominate a candidate for Governor. It reaffirmed its patriotic principles as proclaimed and fought out during the war, and declared it to be the right and duty of Congress to prescribe the terms of reconstruction. On this platform Major General JOHN W. GEARY was nominated for Governor by a unanimous vote, and subsequently his nomination was enthusiastically endorsed by a large and intelligent Convention of the soldiers and Sailors of the State. He is no obscure personage, but one of the representative men of these eventful times. As a civilian he has filled with ability and distinction many important offices of trust, requiring intelligence, discretion and the highest order of integrity and administrative ability. He has been a Captain of boatmen, a civil engineer, a lawyer and a manufacturer. He has served the people as postmaster and Mayor of a city, as Judge of a court, and as governor of a territory. As a volunteer soldier, he is the pride of his comrades, and an honor to his State.

He went out from home to the Mexican war as a captain, and came back with honors as the colonel of his regiment. He entered the service in the late rebellion as a colonel and fought it all the way through, having been promoted to the additional rank of major general "for fitness to command and promptness to execute." This valiant and faithful soldier was present at and participated in sixty battles, and was four times wounded in action, but never once defeated. He made the entire circuit of the rebel confederacy, and fought it authors and defenders from every State that acknowledged their usurped authority. He has given to his country his first-born son, killed in battle; he has perilled his life and shed his blood for the flag and cause of our country, and he bears upon his person the honorable scars from many a well-fought field. Such is the candidate presented for the suffrages of the loyal and patriotic voters of Pennsylvania.

As a competitor the Democratic party has presented the Hon. Hiester Clymer. He, too, is a representative man; but if so, of party, rather than of his country. His platform and his campaign thus far may be summarily comprehended in the phrase, "Up with the rebel, and down with the negro." He is sustained by the unanimous vote of all the members who sustained the war, has proposed sundry amendments to the Constitution of the United States, to be submitted to the State Legislatures for ratification; and it will be the duty of the Legislature we are about to elect to approve or disapprove of these fundamental changes in the national constitution. These amendments are the terms fixed by Congress on which the States lately in rebellion and their people can resume their practical relations to the national Union. These terms may be briefly stated as follows:

1. That all persons born or naturalized in the United States shall be citizens thereof, and that all citizens shall have equal protection in the enjoyment of life, liberty and property.

2. That representation shall be apportioned among the several States according to numbers, but that classes disfranchised without cause shall not be counted in fixing the basis of Federal representation.

3. That all who are guilty of treason and perjury shall be ineligible to office, unless the disability be removed by a two-thirds vote of Congress.

4. That the validity of the national obligations incurred in the war shall not be questioned, and all rebel debts and claims for slaves void.

The States of Tennessee, Connecticut and New Hampshire, by the action of their several legislatures, have already ratified these amendments by very large majorities. Our friends in Congress and out of Congress are united in the conviction that these terms are pre-eminently magnanimous, wise and just. If accepted, they secure the legitimate fruits of the war, and essential to our peace and security for the future. By the storms of civil war some of the land marks made by our fathers were taken away, and some of the ancient foundations laid by them were moved. Let us wisely readjust them, so that our temple of liberty may stand upon the broader and firmer foundation of universal liberty and impartial justice.

Such is an outline of the inglorious record of Hiester Clymer, and by it, as he declared on a recent occasion, he is determined to stand. His whole public career and all his official acts and public declarations of opinion have been uniformly consistent. His record may be searched in vain for a vote or sentiment evincing true loyalty to the flag or cause of the country, or which was not at the time in harmony with the prevailing political sentiment at Richmond and Charleston. Upon these records and candidates we must confidently appeal to the patriotic voters of the Keystone State for a most emphatic verdict in favor of the right.

Sundry dispatches captured from the enemy disclose his method of organization and plan of campaign. The chairman of their State Central Committee, as a sort of head centre, appoints a reliable subordinate in every election district in the State, and these, from the debris of the late "Knights of the Golden Circle," and such other materials as can be had, are required to organize "sicsic circles," or Democratic clubs, which are to register the voters, collect money for the party, distribute documents and do various other things to insure the full party vote. There are semi-military organizations, and the members are admitted by initiation, at which the candidate "places his right hand on his left breast," and enters into the most solemn vow to vote against all men who are willing to give the negro either political or social equality in this State, or in any other State, District or Territory of this country." Their watchwords are "Silence," "Obedience," "Vigilance." It is a pity the great light of these magnanimous patriots should be longer concealed under a bushel. Indeed, they can find nothing more important to do in this great crisis of our country's fate. But forewarned should be forearmed. Guard well against these insidious appeals to the prejudices of our people, and attempts to mislead them by such means. Be not deceived by the stale clamor about negro equality and negro suffrage. These favorite hobbies were employed to have been ridden to death at our last election, when, as now, they were declared by these same men to be the great issue of the contest. They also now raised up and brought upon the track again mounted by the same riders, and destined to the same ignoble end. The Constitution of Pennsylvania permits only white men to vote. By its terms it can be amended only once in every five years, and having been amended in 1864, allowing the soldiers the right to vote, it cannot, in conformity with its own provisions, be amended again until 1869. It is hoped, therefore, our Democratic friends will restrain themselves, and not press negro suffrage upon us before authorized by the Constitution to do so.

Come to your township and county organizations without delay; revive at once everywhere the Leagues and Associations which proved of such vast service during the war; every friend feel that he has something to do in the good work, and proceed forthwith to do it with all his might. Exclude from these leagues all personal quarrels and personal aspirations, and labor only for the public good. See to it that all needful assessments are made in due time. Be not misled by the gasconade and clamor of our adversaries; they have been ingloriously defeated in every contest for years, and cannot prevail against us. Nothing but our base loyal by the Presidential use of the power of office could have galvanized them into sufficient vitality to make another fight against the victorious hosts of freedom. The physical conflict for the time at least, is ended, but the moral conflict between loyalty and disloyalty continues, and the grave question is, whether the principles which underlie the rebellion shall rule the State and the nation.

We urge harmony, energy, systematic, associated and individual labor, and a renewal of the pledges of fidelity to the gallant and patriotic people of the State have solemnly sustained us and the cause of the country, under the heavy pressure and discouragements of drafts, failures, fratricidal strife, slander and bogus, and when nothing but an abiding faith in the justice of God could enable us to see the end. Surely there can be no faltering now, when the goal is almost reached, and when one more united rally for our principles and our flag will enable us to secure the ripe fruits of the late dreadful conflict, and to gather them safely for ourselves and our children.

We stand over the ruins of a gigantic rebellion, the most formidable enemy republican institutions ever encountered. We stand by the graves of three hundred thousand of our noblest men, who counted their lives well spent when offered freely for liberty and Union. In the presence of their spotless shades, and in the presence of the sorrowful mourners and the doubting and sneering enemies of free government at home and abroad, in the presence of the oppressed millions, we, in behalf of the living dead, unfurl them. Watched over the flag with tears, hopes and prayers, before the rapidly coming millions of the future, before a God of Justice, and in the name of all that makes life valuable and honor among men, we stand pledged to secure and maintain forever the principles for which our brothers died.

By order of the Committee,

F. JORDAN, Chairman.

Oyer and Terminer.

Our readers are familiar with the circumstances of the killing of John S. Gallantine, at McKeesport, on the morning of January 1st, by Geo. W. Lazear. The case was brought up yesterday, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Judges, Sterrett, Mellon, Stowe and Brown presiding. The statements published at the time were substantially the same as the evidence adduced at the trial. Lazear occupied a dwelling house in the outskirts of the borough of McKeesport, and on the Saturday night preceding the murder was sleeping on the floor, his wife being ill, and a servant girl occupying a bed. At some time after midnight Lazar was aroused by the girl, who informed him that some person was endeavoring to get into the house. The window in the front of the house had two panes of glass broken out, and Lazar, on hearing a hand moving under the curtain. He immediately started to the door, but on going out could see no person, although he heard footsteps. He then loaded a shot gun and sat down to await a return of the supposed burglar. After waiting some time Lazar heard a noise at the window, and a person attempting to enter. Supposing this person came to the office of Alderman Morrow and made oath against Williams for larceny as bailee. Williams, who at present resides on the Island and was in the basement of the St. Charles Hotel, was arrested and brought before the above magistrate, who held him in bail for a hearing on Saturday.

Selling Rotten Melons.

J. B. Williams, Board of Health officer, appeared before Alderman Morrow, yesterday, and made oath against Edward Sheppard for keeping and maintaining a nuisance. Sheppard keeps a fruit stand at No. 180 Wylie street, and among other things he exposed for sale a rotten citron, or musk melon, the stench from which was very offensive. Mr. Williams, in his rounds, was attracted by the disagreeable effluvia, and requested Sheppard, who is a gentleman of color, to abate the nuisance. Several of complaining Ist treated the defendants of the official to a lengthy tirade of abuse, in the course of which he gave Mr. Williams to understand that he would sell what he pleased if it was rotten if he thought proper, the purchaser, Mr. Williams thought otherwise, and accordingly instituted legal proceedings, as stated. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the fruit merchant.

Free Excursion.

Those fond of taking a pleasant trip to the country can have an opportunity on Saturday of doing so, free of expense. A free excursion train will leave the Union Depot about eight o'clock on that morning, to carry all who wish to go to the pleasant village of Mansfield, on the line of the Pittsburgh and Steubenville Railroad, five miles southwest of this city, where E. C. White, the well-known real estate agent, will expose at auction sale three very desirable residences, with beautiful grounds surrounding them. He will also offer for sale twenty vacant lots situated in the very centre of the village, at very reasonable rates. To those desirous of purchasing a good homestead in a pleasant and healthful location, we would say go down to Mansfield at all hazards, and take a view of those offered for sale.

Boarding House Thieves.

A man having made application at the boarding house of Mrs. Hess, No. 11 Ross street, for board and lodging was admitted shortly after wards it was found that the new boarder did not bear a very high character for honesty, he having possessed himself of a considerable quantity of clothing belonging to one of the other boarders. A complaint was immediately lodged against him at the Mayor's office, but the thief escaped with his booty. It would be well if all boarding house keepers would refuse applicants without a reference, strangers at all times should be looked upon with care, if not suspicion. The reputation of a boarding establishment demands that this precaution be taken.

Refused to Pay Him.—A colored man named David Johnston sent $20 to a barber named William Williams, in September, 1865, on the condition that he should be paid back the money in three months. The tonorial professor, if the story of Johnston is to be relied on, used the funds of the latter and ever since had refused to pay his creditor or acknowledge the legality of the debt. Mr. Johnston came to the office of Alderman Morrow and made oath against Williams for larceny as bailee. Williams, who at present wields the comb and scissors in the basement of the St. Charles Hotel, was arrested and brought before the above magistrate, who held him in bail for a hearing on Saturday.

Car Smashed.—The driver of a wagon yesterday ran against a car on the Citizens Passenger Railway on Penn street, damaging the windows, and frightening the passengers in the car. We heard of no arrest. There are a great many teamsters who appear to think that the street cars have no rights which they are bound to respect. If there is no law for the protection of the cars, or if there is a law which has become a dead letter, the sooner the patrons of the cars know it the better. We think that a few severe lessons would have a salutary effect upon some drivers.

Commander James Shepherd Thornton, ever memorable from his connection with the Kearsarge and its sinking of the Alabama, that noted rebel pirate, which destroyed so much property on the high seas and damaged our fame so much in Europe before she was conquered, is in town, the guest of his brother-in-law, S. R. McClean, Esq. His great services have been publicly acknowledged and honored a short time since, at Boston, New York and Philadelphia.

Fenced In.—That portion of the Monongahela wharf lying east of, and contiguous to, the suspension bridge, has been fenced in with a paling fence, for the protection of the property used by the bridge company in repairing the bridge. It was done with the approbation and consent of Councils, the company paying a yearly rent to the city, and agreeing to keep poles, hooks, grapnels and ropes on hand for the recovery of drowned persons.

Struck with a Tumbler.—James Thompson appeared before Alderman Lyster yesterday and made an information against David Lanley for assault and battery. The prosecutor alleges that Lanley struck him with a tumbler in the face, without any provocation whatever. Both parties reside in the Fifth ward, and bear the interesting relation of brother-in-law to each other. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of the assaulting party.

Special Caution.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has become so popular that various parties have put out articles calling them Mrs. Winslow's. Please take notice that the Mrs. Winslow of the Soothing Syrup is not connected with any other article. jy11m&w

SOUTHERN UNION CONVENTION.

Editorial Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA, September 3, 1866.

Delegations of loyal and patriotic southerners still continue to arrive, although the Convention has been organized and in working order during the past two days. The intense enthusiasm of yesterday has in no wise abated, and the general interest and enthusiasm attendant upon the assembling of the Convention gives no signs, as yet, of dying out. I am told that the present occasion creates more joy than has ever marked any similar assembly that has, in the course of generations past, met in Philadelphia. The contrast between the meeting of 1776 and the present patriotic and the loyal delegates to the present Convention is not only striking but pregnant with suggestions of thought and meaning.

At the time I mailed my last letter, it was generally believed and conceded that the honor of permanently presiding over the deliberations of the loyal Southern Convention would fall to the lot of Parson Brownlow, of Texas. He is a favorite with all the delegates. A man of sound judgment, sterling integrity, unyielding and unflinching in the hour of trial, willing at any or all times to submerge any just principle for the sake of policy or conciliation, he was deemed too extreme to be entrusted with the position, believing as much is at stake upon discretion and thought for future consequences. Gov. Peaslee's and entertains no remedy for rebellion and treason, except the extreme penalty of the law, and he based upon universal and impartial suffrage. He tenaciously adheres to the belief that it will not be until the black man of the south is armed with a ballot that the spirit of slave-holding of the conquered master, any liberty, or protection, such as man is Governor Pease. But there is in large element in the Convention who deem universal and impartial suffrage a dangerous and inopportune remedy. They say the public mind is not prepared for it, and until the people are educated up to the point of granting to the south as such men as Gov. Pease see them, to adopt negro suffrage as a party issue would be extremely dangerous. There can be no doubt that many of the loyal portions of the south with such a platform would be battled with great joy, but the movement may jeopardize the elections of the North, and would hardly receive any moral support, yet, from the masses of the border States. While all recognize the justice of giving the negro a vote ultimately, there are many who object, at this juncture, to the act of dragging the subject into the political issues of the day.

By strict adherence to the impartial suffrage plank as laid down by the fundamental principles of the Convention, Governor Pease was thrown overboard in the Convention, (by the committee on Organization, and Ex-Attorney General Stanbery was selected as their leader. Singular to say, the choice was made at the suggestion of the Tennessee delegation. Gen. Speer is not opposed to impartial suffrage, but it is understood that Governor Pease will be the nominee for Governor, and Stanbery a representative man of Southern integrity and loyalty. The Convention could have selected no more worthy a patriot to preside over their all important deliberations.

The question of Negro Suffrage will doubtless give considerable trouble to the Convention. Many delegates have traveled the borders of the extreme South, or Gulf States, and almost as a unit upon the question, and are uncompromising. They declare it an absolute necessity that the negro should be given a vote without delay. Indeed, some of the more advanced loyalists assert that if the Convention refuse to acknowledge this as a vital measure to be recommended, that they will, as individuals, proclaim their opinions upon the subject in a public manner, and go with them to the loyal people of the country for acknowledgment and endorsement. They say more: That they are not longer to be a party to the action of country where negro suffrage is not granted at once. The question will probably be brought to a close fight when the committees upon the legal and constitutional points report.

The strong, and I might say, the only opposition to the measure comes from the Honorary Delegates admitted from the North; more than half the gentlemen are pro-slavery in sentiment. They vehemently assert that it universal suffrage be ruled out, the Convention will be fruitless, and that the sole object for which it was called will have been frustrated by Northern intolerance.

As the telegraph has, in all probability, anticipated my report I need not trouble you of the doings of Convention. I will now speak of it in general terms.

During its session to-day, the hall was crowded to its utmost capacity by the fair sex as spectators. Occasionally, some distinguished gentleman would make his appearance, and be received with storms of applause. General Grant was announced in the morning, and was received with patriotic and enthusiastic demonstrations. Old Ben Butler received a like ovation from the Southern loyalists, who thus freely gave back the hand of fellowship to comrades in the north, that the old hero was treasured by the Southern people. He may be detested by those whom he visited to fear and obey the laws, but in the eyes of the loyal people he is justly honored and admired.

To-day the Secretary read a dispatch to the Convention, stating that Grant and Farragut had just left Norfolk, and that the latter could portray the scene of excitement that with enthusiasm which followed the announcement of their arrival. The delegates arose to their feet and joined in the chorus of the nine cheers ever heard by mortal man. The bands in attendance struck up Hail Columbia, when a thousand voices joined in the patriotic hymn in such a manner as to make the very walls of the staunch old building quiver. Could the brave Grant have heard the song and shout that greeted his name, he would have no doubt been found in the President's company.

Guy Curtin, arrived to-day and presided over the all-absorbing meeting of the Southern delegates.

Our fellow-citizen, Thomas M. Marshall, has made a powerful speech to-day at the Union meeting. He was received with a large and enthusiastic meeting. He had scarcely commenced upon making a speech, but as his presence was discovered, he was loudly called upon, and seemed to manifest considerable trepidation that he kept the audience in the best of humor and excitement while he rattled off his hard hits upon the position assumed of the day. Gen. Kaine, of Baltimore, Governor Pease, Stanbery, and other distinguished gentlemen addressed the same meeting.

Southern Carolina South Carolina is not represented in the formidable Convention, she did not missed in the deification of the wise patriots of the South.

Public meetings are being held in different parts of the city to-night. After the Convention is over the more prominent Southern Loyalists will visit the principal cities of the North, and speak to the people upon the important issues of the day, and the condition of things in the section of country they represent.

Preparations are being made to send out a large delegation of soldiers and sailors to the forthcoming convention, which is to be held in Pittsburgh. The military citizens here look upon it as a grand affair, and the more the merrier, and prophecy that our Soldiers' National Convention will be one of the greatest reunions of the days in use since the days of the rebellion.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

WEDNESDAY, September 5, 1865.

The New York stock quotations to-day, were as follows: 6s, 1867, 107; 1881 bonds, 112; 5-20s, old, 107½; do new, 106; 10-40s, 96½; 7-30s, 106½; do second issue, 106¾. Michigan Southern R. R., 85¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 85¾; Fort Wayne, 103½; Erie, 72½; Western Union Telegraph Co., 58; Chicago & Rock Island, 109½; Chicago & Northwestern, common, 35¼; do, preferred, 69¾.

—We find that the circulation of legal-tender and national bank notes stood thus on the following dates:

	June 1, 1865.	Aug 1, '65
Legal-tender notes	$320,190,269	$356,375,808
	June 16, 1865	Aug 16, '65
National bank notes	$197,772,705	$208,100,273
Total circulation	$516,933,254	$564,477,643

The legal-tender reduction between the dates mentioned was therefore $36,185,461, the increase in national bank notes $10,327,570. The nominal increase in the circulation since the beginning of June last year has been $47,544,389. But this increase is said to be more than offset by the withdrawal of the State bank notes. So that the volume of the circulation is nominally about the same now as it was fifteen months ago. The compound interest legal tenders have also ceased to circulate from hand to hand as money, and have now no other monetary function to perform in our financial system, except that they are held in reserve by the national banks. About fifty millions are supposed to be thus held, and to replace an equal amount of green backs. Early next session Mr. Hooper's project will be revived of forbidding the banks to count these interest-bearing notes as a reserve. If such should give bail for their appearance at the next term of Court in the following sums, viz: Charles V. Culver, $50,000; Lucien A. Culver, $50,000; and Jas Wood & Son, in Carlisle, who was also indicted, but not arrested, was ordered to give bail in the sum of $24,000.

—The condition of financial affairs in Europe is favorable to much higher prices for all our government bonds. The reduction in the rate of discount by the Bank of England from 10 to 9 per cent increases the European value of five-twenty bonds to investors there. Well-informed foreign firms are of opinion that 6-20 twenty bonds will command a level with British consols at 89 to 90, and as they pay 6 per cent in gold, while consols pay only 3 per cent annual interest, it is reasonable to assume that they are cheap to Europeans at 90 in gold.

—The receipts from internal revenue on Saturday were $2,750,005 64; receipts for the week ending September 2, $10,258,852 65, for the month of August the total receipts from internal revenue were $26,034,310 84. This is the largest amount received in any one month since the Internal Revenue Bureau was established.

—The following comparative statement shows the average condition of the leading items of the Philadelphia Banks for the past and previous week:

	Last week.	This week.
Capital	$31,942,150	$31,942,150
Loans	48,201,763	50,050,890	Inc $1,849,127
Specie	916,971	898,345	Loss 18,626
Legal-tend'rs	20,011,251	21,000,251	Inc 1,000,000
Deposits	39,023,285	41,142,877	Inc 2,117,589
Circulation	9,263,510	9,259,514	Inc 16,004

The heavy payments from the Treasury during last week on account of temporary loans, it will be seen, have very largely increased the averages of all the more important items in the bank statement. The legal-tenders have increased $3,027,992, and the deposits $2,117,589. The loans have increased over a million and a half, mainly, we suppose, from investments in government bonds.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
WEDNESDAY, September 5, 1865. }

There are no new characteristics to the produce markets worthy of special notice. The stock of Wheat is almost entirely exhausted, but then there is not very much inquiry at the prices. Flour is firm with a fair jobbing demand, Provisions remain quiet and unchanged. Produce, generally, is dull but without quotable change.

GRAIN—Supply of Wheat very light, though the demand is not very pressing at the prices. Sale of 100 bush new Oats, in elevator, at 57, and small sales from store at 62 to 65. Barley is very quiet; old corn in good demand at 90 to 95. Sales of 200 bushels shelled Corn at 78. Rye is quiet and unchanged.

FLOUR—There is a steady fair local demand for this article, and the market is firm but unchanged. Sales of Spring Wheat at $10 70 to $11 50, and Winter Wheat at $12 to $13, as to quality. Rye Flour is selling from store at $8, and Cornmeal at 95.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is quiet and unchanged at 17, 18 19, for Shoulders; 19 @20 for Ribsides, and 21 to 25 for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is quiet 22@22½, and Mess Pork quoted firm at $35 50.

SEEDS—Timothy Seed is in good supply and dull; sales at $4 10 @4 15, and $4 in a small way. Flaxseed is wanted at $3—none offering. No movement in Clover.

SALT—Sale of 60 bbls at $2 60—delivered; small sales from store at $2 75.

BUTTER—Is quiet and a little dull but unchanged. Packed is quoted at 24 to 25, while prime fresh Butter, in small packages, is selling at 28@30.

CHEESE—Sales of Western Reserve at 16 to 17; Hamburg at 17 to 18, and Goshen 21—market firm.

EGGS—Quiet but steady and unchanged; sales of fresh packed at 20 to 21.

APPLES—The arrivals continue light, and with an improved demand, the market may be quoted steady at $2 to $3.

PIG LEAD—Last sales at 11½.

ASHES—Firm and unchanged.

OIL—No. 1 Lard $1 70@1 75; No. 2, $1 45.

LIME—Sales from store at $2 per bbl.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
WEDNESDAY, Sept. 5, 1865. }

CRUDE—There is no improvement to note in the demand for this article, and the market is dull and neglected, and prices are tending downward. Sales of 200 bbls at 16; 250 at same price, and it is said that there was also a sale at 15½—quotations may be fairly given at 15½ to 16, bbls returned, and 20½ to 21, bbls included, and these may be regarded as the extremes of the market. The arrivals of oil continue very light, and, as has been the case for some time, the supply, aside from that in the hands of speculators, is almost exhausted. The demand at the figures current at present is very light, but at a reduction of 1 or 2 cents per gallon, we have no doubt, a considerable amount of oil could be sold.

REFINED—There is no improvement to note in the demand for bonded oil, and the market is quiet and dull, though prices are nominally unchanged. We can report a sale of one thousand barrels for November delivery, at 39, free on board cars here, and 1 was rumored that 2,000 barrels of bonded oil for bbls, to be delivered during the last half of September in Philadelphia, at 45. Free Oil is dull and neglected—prime standard brands may be fairly quoted at 45.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil reported today were as follows:

Fisher & Bro	142	Barbour & Co	51
J. E. Strickler	140	Wolf & Co	90
Brewer & Burke	145	S. B. Floyd	10
Waring & King	44

REMARKS.

With continued heavy receipts the market for beef cattle has ruled heavy, and prices are fully half a cent a pound lower on the average than the rough to fair droves of last week. Of very little difference from last week. Most of the cattle were common, and sold at 11@16 cts. The total supply for the week was in excess of the demand, but nearly all were sold within the range of prices quoted.

Sheep and Lambs were in fair demand at from $5 to $7—the latter at outside price.

Hogs were lower, selling at 10½ to 11c for corn-fed.

The market closed very dull with the above range of prices.

Hogs—Are dull and rather lower; 2000 head sold at the different yards at from $14@15 the 100 pounds nett—the latter rate for fine corn fed.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

New York Stock and Money Market.

NEW YORK, September 5.—Money remains easy and the supply is largely in excess of the demand, which is quite moderate. Call loans vary from 3 to 5 per cent. The gold market closed at 146¾@146¾. Government securities were dull this afternoon, but generally steady. The closing prices were; 5-20 Coupons, 1865, 108¾@108⅞; 10-40 Coupons, 98¾@99; July 7-30's, 106⅝@106¾.

After the session there was a sharp raid made on Erie, and the stock was forced down to 72⅞, but it soon afterwards rallied to 73@73¼. The balance of the market sympathized to some extent with the fall in Erie, but the general decline was not marked. Illinois Central was hammered severely to-day with sellers' and buyers' option, but there is very little real stock coming out. Erie was the great feature of the market at the close, and the transaction in the other shares were quite limited.

The Post's money article says that the main feature of the week has been in the steady tone of the market for government bonds. Gold closed dull and drooping. The supply for delivery is more ample, and coin was lower to-day. The loan market is easy at 5 per cent., with a fair amount of activity. The Stock market is dull, and there is little doing. After the Board, New York Central sold at 93; Erie, 72¾; Hudson River, 120¾; Reading, 113¾; Illinois Central, 122¾. Foreign Exchange is dull.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—At the four o'clock open board the following were the principal sales: W. U. T., 58; N. Y. C., Ex. D. 122½; Erie, 73¾; M. S. and N. J., 83¼; Reading, Ex. D., 113¾; C. & R. RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to swell slowly at this point with three and a half feet in the channel by the marks last evening. Hoppers are entertained of a rise in the Allegheny, but of this there is no certainty, as the standing considerable rain has no doubt fallen at its headwaters, and the swell thus far has been out of the Monongahela.

There has been no arrivals or departures since our last report, aside from the regular packets, and business continues almost entirely suspended at the landing.

The Cincinnati Commercial of Tuesday, announces the death of Capt. T. M. Harton, of this city. This is a mistake. Capt. T. M. is still alive, but his brother, D. F. Harton died on Monday and was buried on Tuesday. The deceased was an estimable young man, and his sudden demise is deeply regretted by a large circle of relatives and friends.

John Haslett, a steamboat pilot, died suddenly in Allegheny City, on Tuesday evening. Particulars in regard to the death will be found in our local columns.

The Van Buren, Capt. Nowland, is advertised for New Orleans, and all intermediate points forthwith.

A dispatch received at Cincinnati on Monday states that the Lorena had arrived at New Orleans all right, and would load immediately for a return trip.

The Louisville Courier, of Tuesday, says:

Mr. J. L. Shallcross, agent of the underwriters in this city, has returned from the Messenger, on which boat agencies have had risen on the freight to the amount of $20,000. All that freight has been saved in a damaged condition, a portion of it having been raised last week, and the balance was transhipped at Cairo on the Cora S. She left Cairo Sunday with 75 hogsheads of bacon. The Messenger sunk in the Mississippi, but was raised again, had arrived at Cairo, and left that point Sunday for Cincinnati to be hauled on the docks.

The Cincinnati Commercial, of Tuesday, contains the following items:

The Big Sandy packet Revenue, Capt. Washkerr, while bound down, on Friday evening last, struck a root or snag, one mile above Buena Vista, Ohio, and sunk in a few minutes, the water being three feet over her lower deck. She will doubtless have to be wrecked. Her cargo, 200 tons, principally iron, nails, &c., will be recovered in a damaged condition. We give the particulars of this disaster in another column.....Capt. Ben. F. Davidson, President of the Boatmen's Insurance Company, returned home yesterday, from his eastern tour, and says: The W. F. Curtis will go in the docks for thorough repairs, on her return from Marietta, on Monday next. The Nightingale, Capt. H. Frisbee, having given up her New Orleans trip, reshipped on the Silver Spray, and is now loading for St. Louis.....The R. M. Bishop, Capt. Gus. Brown, has been withdrawn from the Hadley, as a regular packet, leaving here every Tuesday.

Capt. D. L. Hendrickson, of the Maggie Hays, left for Pittsburgh in last night's train. Capt. H. B. Hays went out in command of the Maggie Hays.....The Magnolia will resume her regular trips to Maysville to-morrow, weather permitting. There is also some talk of bringing the fine Sandy packet Telegraph again.....Capt. Jesse K. Bell, President of the People's Line of Louisville packets, is expected here on Saturday next. He stated he had received all the necessary proposals for building two large and splendid packets for this line.....Capt. Carnes returned from Louisville, the Natchez down to the levee on Friday, to load for Memphis. She is in tip-top order.....The Silver Spray came over to the wharf yesterday, looking as gay as a new pin. Captain Pelton and Lindsay say they are ready for a rush of freight.

The John H. Groesbeck is undergoing repairs on the Marine Ways, and the Belle of Pittsburgh, repairing at the same place, is being almost completely rebuilt from stem to stern. The repairs to the General Lytle will be completed by the middle of October. She will have an entirely new cabin, upper works, and boilers. The Annie Lantz is repairing in the Cincinnati Marine Ways. Captain Gibbs is painting and refitting the J. R. Gilmore. She will be ready for business next week.....Messrs. C. I. Kouns & Brother, of New Orleans, yesterday purchased the steamer the New Orleans and Red River trade. She is now loading for Red River, via New Orleans.
